Course and Curriculum Design

"The Last Lectures"
Video lecture series, associate producer

I was associate producer for The Last Lectures with Dr. Harry Edwards, designing the 12-part structure of the lecture series, managing editors to help create it, and conducting archival research. The Last Lectures has since been adopted as a key curriculum piece by over thirty sociology, history, political science, and sports studies departments, including the sociology departments at Emory University, New York University, Vanderbilt University, and the University of California, Berkeley (Cal has created an endowed professorship to teach this material).

"Race, Sports, and Social Justice"
